Mr. Paulsen has been waiting patiently for a long time to get this ore put through in order to ascertain just what kind of rock he was taking out of his lease. Assays were of no value. The ore was too spotted and streaky in its value to base a fair estimate on. One assay migh show values into the hundreds of dollars and the next only a few It was necessary to put through a big bulk and find out how the whole ledge ran and the result has exceeded the most sanguine expectations of the leasers as well as the officials of the Antelope Mining company. In the neighborhood of 1000 ounces was extracted from the 156 tons which will return something more than $12,000. The exact figures are not available but the above are sufficiest to show cause why Superintendent Nels Paulsen is a glad

The Solid Gold mill did the work splendidly for according to Mr. Paulsen himself assays of the tailings showed values as low as 80 cents. Remarkable as it may seem it is estimated that about 97 per cent of the gold contents were saved.-Round Mountain Nugget.
